Dan Perry, Sequim U-18 baseball

Sequim has needed a place were kids can work on there baseball skills during the winter months. Baseball is a sport that needs practice not just at the Field's during the season but at a place that they can go when the weather is bad. Most kids don't even pick up a glove until tryouts or there first practice. This means kids go from mid June through late February before they throw a baseball or even swing a bat. 7 months is to long to take off a sport that needs hand eye coordination. Sequim Little League has 400+ members that includes over 100 girls that play softball. We have wanted a place that kids can go to get instruction and guidance outside our league. This indoor facility in the answer we have been looking for. I have talked with other parents in our league about the lack of clinics in the area. Our kids are behind in the basic skills that are needed to compete at a higher level. With the help of knowledgeable coaches and a place to hold clinics this facility can help our kids play better baseball.
